Claims 42 and 49 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

There is antecedent basis in claim 40 for the term "metronidazole" in claim 42.

There is no antecedent basis in claim 44 for the term "metronidazole" in claim 49.

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 40-54 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Herschler (U.S. Patent No. 4,997,823) in combination with Kelly (WO 02/092087) and Kirschner et al (U.S. Patent No. 6,899,890).

Herschler discloses the use of a combination of prostaglandin and an antibiotic for the treatment of pelvic infections but does not disclose vaginal administration of prostaglandins and antibiotics. Herschler also discloses a kit comprising a first container comprising prostaglandin and a second container comprising antibiotic (column 2, lines 43-68). However, since Kelly discloses vaginal administration of prostaglandins and Kirschner et al disclose the vaginal administration of antibiotics such as azithromycin and metonidazole (column 5, lines 34-44 and column 13, line 29-31). Therefore, it would have been prima facie obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art at the time the claimed invention was made to administer vaginally a combination of azithromycin and/or metronidazole with prostaglandins in order to treat various pelvic infections.

Applicant's arguments filed December 15, 2008 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant contends that Pena et al does not disclose the use of azithromycin for vaginal administration. Said argument has not been found persuasive since vaginal administration of azithromycin and metronidazole was known in the art at the time the present invention was made as disclosed by Kirschner.

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
